Helping You Help Your Customers - Troubleshooting FAQs

Q: I just filled my propane grill tank, but no gas is coming out?

If the tank valve has been turned on too quickly the gas flow may exceed the designed flow capacity causing the valve to "slug shut". Turn the tank valve to the closed position, then turn back on slowly to restore gas flow. Cylinders equipped with an OPD valve have a device incorporated into them that will not allow gas to flow unless a connection has been made to the cylinders service valve.

If you still have questions, please contact your local Suburban Propane representative.
